I've always been (and am) a dreamer. My imagination has always been fertile and she has made me (and does) company at all times in my life. I have always striven to help others, whether with a word of comfort or simply with presence. One day I saw two reports on television: one of a device that allowed the color blind to see and distinguish colors and allow deaf people to hear for the first time. It was like a blink of an eye, a flash. I thought: this is what I want for my future. Work to make dreams possible. That is why I chose to devote my efforts to learning computer science. Every day I do my best, using computers, to improve people's lives. I met OLX and thought: I found where I can hone and strengthen this dream: Making life easier for people. Having a safe place where anyone can buy and sell online can be the difference between acquiring a good one and even solving a major financial family problem. How can I get rid of things I do not want anymore? How to get what I want cheaper? OLX. Great answer. I am a passionate developer for solving problems and feel that I can make a difference in people's lives and make this world a better place and I feel we can do it together.
